

What Happens in a US Shutdown?

The US might shut down if Republicans and Democrats can't agree on money. This could affect workers and services.

BBC's Nick Beake says a shutdown could stop some services and government workers might not get paid.

The shutdown is important. It shows how political fights can change daily life. People are watching to see if they can agree soon.