

Manchester City is getting a new player, Tijjani Reijnders, from AC Milan. He plays for the Netherlands. They want to be champions again.

City wants a stronger, younger team. Some older players may leave. The manager, Pep Guardiola, plans to make the team smaller.

Reijnders is a strong player who scores goals and helps the team. Last year, he scored 10 goals and made 4 assists. He's good at passing and moving the ball.

Reijnders might fill the gap left by Kevin de Bruyne. He plays in different positions. Some think he's a good replacement, but others are unsure.

Reijnders is great at shooting and free-kicks. Teammates like him. He has a good attitude and is expected to bring energy and goals.
