

NHS 10-Year Plan

The NHS has a new plan. It wants to care for people in the community and stop them getting sick. This is called prevention.

People with learning disabilities often don't get enough help and die younger. The plan aims to help them live longer with better care nearby.

People like the plan but worry about how it will work. They want to know how it will help people with learning disabilities and autism.