

News from the Department for Education

On 18 June 2025, the Department for Education talked about money for schools, study rules, and free courses for jobs in England.

New tools and workshops help academies and local authorities manage tasks and learn about buying energy and technology.

There are events and online talks to learn about school money and safety. People can sign up for emails to get the latest news.