

Assisted Dying Bill Vote

Some people are upset about the Assisted Dying Bill. They think it might harm very sick or disabled people and make some lives seem less important.

Some think the bill is good. It may help very sick people decide how they want to end their lives. It passed in the House of Commons.

Groups are worried the bill may make it hard for people with learning disabilities to get care. They want more help for safe, informed choices.