

People in Israel want the war to end and worry about hostages. Some are hurt for asking for peace, holding signs with words like love and peace.

Amit's dad listens more now. She says kids have died in the war, and it must stop. Some in Israel care more about Gaza, but many want no change.

Many Israelis want the war to stop to save hostages. They are tired of fighting. Some soldiers also want it to end.

Netanyahu thinks the war will help free hostages and defeat Hamas. Others disagree, saying it hurts hostages and is about politics, not just safety.

Some people at a rally want the war to continue until Hamas is gone. They think stopping now will make Hamas stronger.

Some Israelis, including Netanyahu's government, believe the land, like the West Bank, belongs to them and want to take more from Palestinians.

People like Amit feel sad and alone. She left Israel for a while but still feels alone. She wants peace and thinks what is happening is bad for.
