

Many families in Ukraine are worried about loved ones taken by the Russian army. Tatyana's son Vladislav was captured and is in a Russian prison. She.

Yulia Hripun started a group to help bring people home from Russia. Many are still there, making families worried.

The Geneva Convention helps swap soldiers, not regular people. Families feel left out. Ukraine can't safely bring civilians back home.

Some Ukrainians in Russia face charges, making return difficult. Families hope for their return but worry about the effects of being held.

Families hope to see loved ones again but worry. Tatyana thinks of her son daily. The situation is hard and unsure for all.