

An elderly man was attacked by a boy in Franklin Park, Leicestershire, while a girl filmed. He died the next day. The attackers were convicted.

Mr Kohli saw a racist attack before he died. Two boys threw a rock at a man. Police knew about bad behaviour in the area but didn't stop the attack on him.

Linda Haigh told police about racism. She thinks more could be done for Mr Kohli. Police are now working more with the community.

The victim feels unsafe and believes more police could have stopped the attack. The boys got a youth caution.

The police are working to make the area safer by talking to people and doing more patrols. Some people feel upset and think the police took too long.
