

In April, the UK economy shrank by 0.3%. More taxes and trade worries with the US hurt the services sector. Experts expected a 0.1% drop.

Employer costs went up. Family bills for energy, water, and council tax rose. More money for NHS and defence, less for other areas.