

Helping Ukraine's Soil

The UK is giving £500,000 to study how war hurt Ukraine's soil. This will help farmers by checking soil health and training experts.

The war has polluted Ukraine's soil. The study will check how damage affects soil. This is key for Ukraine's food safety and farming.

UK and Ukraine universities will set up labs, train experts, and study soil to help Ukraine protect its soil and food security.