

Stilton is a blue cheese named after a village. It can only be made in Derbyshire, Leicestershire, and Nottinghamshire.

Some say Stilton cheese started in the 18th century. Old papers might prove it. People still talk about changing the rules.

Only cheese from three counties can be called Stilton because of a special rule. This rule stayed the same after the UK left the EU.

Cornish Pasties must be from Cornwall. Scotch Whisky must be made in Scotland. These rules keep the food special.

Stilton has a fun Cheese Rolling Festival. People race with fake cheeses. Some want to change the law so Stilton can make its own cheese again.