

Ofsted and CQC checked services for children with SEND. They aim to improve while keeping track of responsibility. They spoke with families and others.

Inspections are better now as they listen to families, but more sharing chances are needed. They can make daily tasks harder for local areas.

Ofsted and CQC will give inspectors more time and training, make it easier for families to share thoughts, and simplify reports and data requests.

They might change inspections to improve services for children with SEND. They will listen to families and workers to make things better.
