

Working Together in Social Care

Innovation in social care needs new ideas and must include everyone. Digital tools can be hard if not made for all.

Co-production is when people help design care services. This makes them better and fairer. SCIE says it leads to services people trust.

SCIE celebrates co-production, urging listening to service users to improve. They offer guides to include everyone in planning for fair services.