

Madeleine McCann went missing in 2007. Police are searching again in Portugal with diggers and tools. The search will continue until Friday.

A girl went missing on holiday at age three. Police from three countries are searching a big area. They have a main suspect.

BrÃ¼ckner is in jail in Germany for another crime. He says he didn't do anything in Madeleine's case. Police are looking for clues where he might have been.

The search is near where Madeleine was last seen, close to the Ocean Club. Police use special tools like ground-penetrating radar to help.

Madeleine's parents are hopeful. It's been 18 years since she went missing. Police are still working hard to find out what happened.
