

Countries, including the UK, worry a new Georgia law may harm human rights, democracy, and media freedom.

The law might make Georgia less connected to other countries and hurt its Europe hopes. The group wants the law changed or cancelled.