

Jobs for People with Autism

Many with learning disabilities or autism want jobs. A new project is helping more people get jobs and feel independent.

Amazon offers internships for people with autism. This helps them gain skills and confidence. It's important to support everyone in finding work.

Having a job helps people feel part of the community. Projects can help people with disabilities find jobs and feel included.