

Next year, rough sleeping won't be against the law in England and Wales. An old 1824 law will stop being used to help homeless people.

The government will make new rules about begging. This will help people who sleep outside stay safe and move on.