

New Dental Care Project

A project called Caring Beyond Words wants to make dentist visits easier for people with learning disabilities using art to improve care.

Going to the dentist can be hard, especially for people with learning disabilities. A project aims to make dental visits better for them.

The project will help people with learning disabilities by working with groups to use arts for health.