

Support Native People with Disabilities

There is an event in New York about Indigenous people with disabilities helping with climate and health issues.

Speakers will talk about problems Indigenous people with disabilities face and share ideas to improve health and climate change for them.

Indigenous people with disabilities face barriers and discrimination. The event helps include their voices in climate and health solutions.