

An 80-year-old man was attacked in a park in Leicestershire by a 15-year-old boy and a 13-year-old girl. He died the next day.

A boy hit Mr Kohli and used racist words. He got seven years in custody. A girl filmed it and laughed. She got a three-year order and six-month curfew.

The attack left Mr Kohli's family sad and scared. His daughter is angry about the teenagers' sentences. They now feel scared when walking their dog.

Police knew about problems before Mr Kohli's death. They are looking into children's bad behaviour and plan to improve handling such issues.
