

Apology for man with learning disability

A man with a learning disability didn't get a care coordinator. This made him upset. Three groups said sorry for not helping him.

Local rules were too strict. Only health workers could help, but national rules allow social workers too. This made it hard for people like Mr Y.

A meeting will happen to help Mr Y get the right support. They want local rules to match national guidance better.