

The UN chief says we need rules before mining the deep sea. Scientists worry it could harm the sea and animals.

Over 30 countries want to pause deep sea mining. A treaty aims to protect 30% of the sea by 2030, but not enough countries agree yet.

The UK might stop a type of fishing called bottom trawling. It can hurt big sea animals. The goal is to protect and help the sea recover.