

Jeremy Corbyn and John McDonnell went to a rally. Police asked them questions, but they won't face charges. They said they followed the rules.

The police stopped the rally from going to the BBC. It stayed in Whitehall. The police dropped the case against Corbyn and McDonnell.

Corbyn and McDonnell say the police were unfair. They want charges dropped for others in the protest.