

Cancer patients struggle with high travel insurance costs, making holidays difficult. Charity Maggie's says high quotes or no cover cause stress.

Maggie's wants fairer help for cancer patients. Holidays help them feel better, but high costs stop travel to see family or explore.

Josh found travel insurance too costly at £3,000. He travelled without it. The Association of British Insurers aims to help people find the right cover.