

Brooklands Hospital Gets Better Rating

Brooklands Hospital in Birmingham improved care for people with learning disabilities. It now has a 'good' rating from the Care Quality Commission.

The hospital now has more staff and better training. This helps student nurses learn well and makes it better for patients and staff.

The hospital made changes to help patients and carers, hired good staff, and supported nurses to improve care and safety.