

Dog Attacks Still Rising

Dog attacks in the UK are rising, even with the XL bully ban. Michael Carpenter was bitten by a dog he thinks was an XL bully.

In 2024, there were 31,920 dog attacks in England and Wales, a 2% rise from 2023. The XL bully ban was meant to help, but attacks are still.

Some think dog licences could help. Others suggest better laws and education. Many believe current rules don't keep people safe enough.
