

Rachel Reeves says the government will spend more. Spending will grow by 2.3% more than inflation each year. This means more money for services.

The NHS will get 3% more money yearly. The government plans to spend £39bn on housing to help people find homes.

Rachel Reeves, from Labour, wants to spend money wisely and not cut services. This is important for the country.

People have different views on the changes. Listening to everyone helps make good choices for all.
