

Help for Children with SEN in Schools

Half of school suspensions are for children with SEN. Charities want more money for schools to help these children early.

Helping kids before suspension can save money. Leaving school early costs more. Spend £850 million to help at-risk kids and save £1.9 billion.

Kids from poorer families and with SEN are suspended more. Areas with poverty have more kids missing school. The system needs to be fair for all.