

French President Macron visits Greenland to meet leaders, showing Europe's support. Greenland is important for its minerals.

Greenland is small with few people. President Macron's visit is big news. His visit shows Greenland is not for sale.

The visit is about Europe working together. They talk about safety, climate change, and growing the economy. Denmark and France are teaming up.

The US wants Greenland for safety. Denmark is careful but spending more on defence. The EU is also more involved in Greenland.

Macron's visit shows Europe wants to be more independent from the US and cares about Arctic security. Greenland and Denmark want to work with Europe.
