

UK, Australia discuss gender equality

The UK and Australia talked about gender equality. They want to protect women's and girls' rights worldwide.

Both countries will work together to stop violence against women and help women's health in the Indo-Pacific.

The UK and Australia want to help women's groups and make the world safer for all.