

America is facing a tough time.

America has had sad events. Social media can spread anger and make things worse. Some think it's a big problem.

America needs leaders who want peace. It's tough because some make money from fighting. Some believe in a better future, but it's hard to see how.