

Wirral Charity's Training Success

Autism Together in Merseyside is praised for its autism training. It's important for health and social care workers and named after Oliver McGowan.

Autism Together in Merseyside offers special training taught by an autistic person, someone with a learning disability, and a trainer.

The charity helps autistic people share their stories. They are finalists for a national award. Learn more on their website.