

Police in South Africa are looking for a man called Tiger. His real name is James Neo Tshoaeli. He is linked to a mine where 78 people died.

A tiger escaped. Four policemen might have helped. They are waiting for trial. Police are still looking for the tiger but haven't found it yet.

Tiger's family in Lesotho haven't seen him for 8 years. His mum remembers him as kind. His brother stayed in Lesotho to look after sheep.

Tiger was not the main boss. Real bosses of illegal mining are powerful and stay away from the mines.

Supang went to South Africa for work. He died in the mine. His family didn't know he was a zama zama. They are very sad.

The police blocked food and water to stop miners. Many miners got sick, and some died. Supang's family thinks this was wrong and caused his death.

MISSING

Tiger's family waits for news. Police in South Africa are still looking for him, but it's unclear if they are closer to finding him.