

Danielle and her kids have moved a lot. They lost their home. They live in a shared house and hotels now. She hopes for a stable home soon.

The government will build 1.5 million homes, spending £39 billion over 10 years on affordable and social housing. This is more money than before.

There aren't enough cheap homes. People want more homes with social rent. The government needs to build these homes.

Danielle's family moves a lot. Her kids wake up early for school. New housing plans might help. Housing groups want clear goals from the government.