

Changes to Old Energy Meters

The government will slowly stop using RTS meters. They will start in small areas and tell people before their meter changes.

RTS meters are old and need replacing. Energy suppliers will contact customers to change to smart meters.

Ministers and Ofgem will watch closely to ensure the phase-out goes well. Families should quickly contact energy suppliers for a new meter.